PROGRAM

FOREST MANAGEMENT SERVICES

NATURE AND PURPOSE OF PROGRAM

Undertakes reforestation to re-establish coniferous forest growth on burned and cut over lands. Provides assistance to forest products firms enabling them to re-establish forest growth. Forest stands are improved by requiring producers to undertake sanitation and thinning cuts in suitable stands and by thinning operations in dense stands.

The Forest Service reviews the operating plans submitted by forest product firms, as well as approved operations are inspected, to ensure compliance with Department regulations.

Provides a service to those utilizing forage resources in forest areas, in the form of planning, inspection and consultation to achieve maximum benefit from the resource, protect it against abuse and integrate it with other uses. An inspection service is provided for users of land in oil and gas development and other mining activity. Advice is given on road and site location, construction methods, procedures to prevent or overcome problems of soil erosion and water pollution, and prevention of fire hazards.

INFORMATION - FISH INVESTIGATIONS

PROGRAM

Provides basic biological information on the lakes and streams of the province with respect to the production and maintenance of fish stocks. The main objectives of the program are to maximize the yields of fish from all provincial waters. In some cases the investigations may involve the assessment of commercial fish production and in others may be connected with sport fish production. The physical and chemical characteristics of lakes and streams are catalogued and the species of fish inhabiting the waters are recorded.

Prepares and files a biological report with the Fish and Wildlife Division of the Department of Lands and Forests for each body of water investigated. This is a continuing program to increase the inventory records of provincial waters and to provide information upon which management programs may be based.

AVAILABILITY/ELIGIBILITY

All waters of the province are potentially eligible to receive attention and to be investigated by the biological staff. The information obtained during biological investigations is available as a public document to any organization, Government agency or individual.

FISH PROPAGATION PROGRAM

PROGRAM

Provides for the artificial propagation of game fish. A hatchery system presently involving two hatchery installations at Calgary and at Raven near Caroline produce several million fish per year for stocking of public waters. The objective of the program is to distribute artificially propagated trout in as many lakes as possible over the province in order to provide public fishing. The program involves either obtaining eggs from wild fish within the province or importing eggs as may be desired, raising them to the required size and distributing them by tank truck to the various lakes which are stocked each year. In some cases, undesirable species of fish, such as suckers and perhaps perch, may be removed by the use of fish toxicants and trout are subsequently stocked in these waters.

AVAILABILITY/ELIGIBILITY

All public waters in the Province of Alberta can be considered as available for receiving artificially propagated trout. The only restriction imposed is involved with the necessity for legal and unrestricted public access to the water itself. Fish are not stocked in lakes surrounded by private lands unless easements or purchase of land can be obtained in order to allow the public access to fish provided by public funds.

INTERPROVINCIAL WATERS

PROGRAM

Formulates plans, through The Prairie Provinces Water Board, for an equitable apportionment of waters in the Saskatchewan River Basin in cooperation with the Provinces of Saskatchewan and Manitoba and the Federal Government. The three Provinces of Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba share the same watershed in Alberta. The program has national aspects and depends on the cooperation of all concerned. A study of the present and potential water demands in the Saskatchewan and Nelson River Basins was begun in April of 1968 by the Saskatchewan-Nelson Basin Study Board.

PHEASANT PROPAGATION PROGRAM

PROGRAM

Provides research information on pheasants which is used in management of this species of bird. Also provides ring-necked pheasants for release in key areas of the province where survival may have been low or where it is desirable to start a population. About five thousand pheasants per year are raised at the Brooks Game Hatchery and are planted in selected locations after biological investigations have determined the suitability of the habitat for rearing pheasants.

AVAILABILITY/ELIGIBILITY

An area of the province which is suitable for pheasants may receive artificially propagated birds. Often birds are planted along roadsides in areas largely composed of private lands, and hunters will often hunt the birds on private lands. Fish and Game Associations, municipal districts and municipalities, as well as individuals, may make requests for planting of hatchery reared birds. Each of these is investigated before birds are planted.

WILDLIFE CONTROL SERVICES

PROGRAM

Provides the services of two Wildlife Control Officers who remove nuisance animals as required or where they may be causing damage. In the spring months when water runoff is heavy, beavers often cause considerable damage by blocking small streams, thereby flooding culverts, roadways and fields. These animals may be trapped and the pelts sold, or they may be transferred to other waters where they will not cause damage. In some cases, predators such as coyotes, wolves and bears may cause damage to livestock or buildings and it may be necessary to trap and remove these animals. The Wildlife Control Officers carry out removal or control schemes upon request and as may be considered necessary.

AVAILABILITY/ELIGIBILITY

The services of the Wildlife Control Officers are extended to other government agencies upon request and can be made available to municipal or county governments to assist in beaver control. There is no charge made for the services of the Wildlife Control Officers and the service is provided to assist landowners or organizations or government agencies which may not be able to cope with the problems of specific control of nuisance animals.

Maintains the safety, purity and quality of food and drug products and prevents misrepresentation in labelling and advertising.

In the Food and Drugs Act there are prohibitions on the sale of food or drugs that do not meet prescribed standards, are harmful, adulterated, dirty, improperly stored or manufactured under unsanitary conditions. The Act prohibits the advertising of food, drug, cosmetic or medical device as a preventative or cure for a number of serious diseases and lists drugs that may be sold by prescription only. Regulations were amended in 1964 to include listing of chemical additives that may be used in foods, permissible amounts and the underlying reason. Drug standards and regulations were upgraded in 1963 and in 1965 an Adverse Drug Reaction Reporting Program was instituted. Regulation of supply and use of drugs under the Narcotic Control Act is also administered under the Food and Drug Directorate.

All consumers benefit from food and drug control. Provincial health departments, teaching hospitals, medical, dental and pharmaceutical professions consult and cooperate with the Directorate.

INDIAN INTEGRATION

SCOPE OF PROGRAM

The basic function of this Division is to encourage individual native people -- Indian, Eskimo and Metis -- and native communities and associations to participate effectively in the organized social and cultural life of the nation as a whole. This is achieved by simultaneously developing effective contacts and programs among persons of native ancestry, among non-native people and with the two groups acting and interacting in a cooperative situation. A liaison function between Branch officers and various groups is maintained. Consultations, grants, resource skills and active participation is provided.

The Branch also carries the federal responsibility for the consultive and grants relationship for some twenty-odd Friendship Centres in various urban areas across Canada. In the three Prairie Provinces, formal federal-provincial agreements in support of these Centres are operative.

RELEVANT

MULTI-ETHNIC PROGRAM

Guarantees the full participation of all ethnic communities in all phases of the life of the nation and prevents the permanent isolation of any particular ethnic group or segment thereof.

Branch officers encourage the development of public attitudes sympathetic to ethnic questions. Publications, films, seminars and conferences are used in achieving this goal.

This program has elements of consultation, direct service, financial support and action research. It is directed primarily at community groups and national or organizations; program resources are also used by provincial and municipal governments. The program is administered in Ottawa but has strong regional field support, maintaining liaison with ethnic groups and multi-ethnic communities.

TRAVEL AND EXCHANGE

Promotes a better appreciation of Canada and Canadians, develops a sense of pride and belonging among Canadians to enhance Canadian unity and identity.

Encourages travel and exchange designed to help Canadians better understand their place and role in the international community and, through observations abroad, to acquire insights which will help them play a better citizenship role at home.

Following Centennial Year, the branch will pick up from the Centennial Commission the administration of travel and exchange projects coordinated with provincial governments and private organizations. A preliminary appraisal of previous branch programs and the recent Centennial Commission experience tend to indicate that the permanent program should be concerned with the inter-provincial movement, under federal-provincial sponsorship, of high school students between the ages of fifteen and seventeen, with youth travel projects sponsored by voluntary organizations, and adult travel and exchange as well as similar international programs. Research, experimentation and evaluation are expected to be important aspects of this program.

It is expected that the criteria now being used for Centennial travel and exchange will, in the main, be retained.

SERVICE/PROGRAM

BOY SCOUTS OF CANADA

NATURE AND
PROGRAM

Helps boys to become resourceful and responsible members of the community by providing opportunities for their mental, physical, social and spiritual development. The program is operated by volunteers in community groups under the sponsorship of a church, a secular institution, or by a group of interested citizens. Supervision and guidance is afforded by District Councils, Regional Councils, and by the Alberta & Mackenzie Provincial Council.

The program involves participation by small groups of boys, who, with adult help and guidance, operate so as to achieve maximum self-management and shared responsibility. Participation is encouraged by a system of badges and awards. Emphasis is placed on the responsibilities of citizenship, and on camping and outdoor activities.

AVAILABILITY/ELIGIBILITY

Membership is voluntary and open to all boys who will endeavour to live by the promise and law of their section. Promises and laws, designed to be understood by boys, are based on the principle that everyone is expected to love and serve God, respect the human dignity and rights of individuals, and recognize the obligations of the individual to develop and maintain his potential to the best of his ability. The program is divided into four parts, each with its own objectives suited to the contemporary needs of the age group served:

- Wolf Cubs - typical ages eight to ten years.
- Boy Scouts - typical ages eleven to fourteen years.
- Venturers - typical ages fourteen to seventeen years.
- Rovers - typical ages sixteen to twenty-three years.
